Cuisine: Steakhouse

Wine list by King Wang

Wine on list: 889 (27 by the glass)

By the glass: 50 - 3360 RMB

An enchanting cocktail menu welcomes guests to this French-influenced, American-style chophouse but don't let it distract you too much from the wine list. At over 800 wines, this is an impressive undertaking with a wine to suit every palate and budget. A thoughtful historical introduction to each region adds charm.

28 HUBIN ROAD, GRAND HYATT

HANGZHOU 🍷🍷🍷

Cuisine: Hangzhou

Wine list by Henry Huo

Wine on list: 250 (18 by the glass)

By the glass: 88 - 320 RMB

28 Hubin Road's list shows how a culmination of small details can really make a wine list. It starts with a well priced selection of by the glass offerings, including a pair poured from Coravin (which should be more prevalent). The fair pricing continues across this list, alongside a good blend of affordable versions of icons (like a Chave CdR) and yet the depth of top end wines is very assured.

Cuisine: Traditional Italian

Wine list by Ervin Ong

Wine on list: 504 (16 by the glass)

By the glass: 110 - 750 RMB

China's Best Digestif List

This Italian fine dining restaurant in the heart of Shanghai showcases traditional Italian flavours with a twist, complimented by an impressive glass-clad wine cellar. The focus of the wine list is of course Italy and this is achieved with flair, showcasing a breadth of regions, varieties and styles. Suggested wines throughout the menu show a willingness to stray from traditional pairings and promises a remarkable experience.

Cuisine: Modern Teochew

Wine list by Yang Lv (MS), Simon Li

Wine on list: 84 (6 by the glass)

By the glass: 108 - 480 RMB

With a very firm focus on Burgundy & Champagne, Amazing Chinese Changning's tightly chosen list shows a keen awareness of the great wines from these iconic French regions, with a smattering of quality offerings from global regions beyond. Arguably such focus limits this impressive smaller list, despite every selection being carefully picked (and no Champagne by the glass is an oversight).

AMAZING CHINESE CUISINE JING'AN

菁禧荟-静安店

4th Floor, Jincang Wenhua Plaza, No. 1225 Nanjing West Road, Jing'an District, Shanghai 200040

Cuisine: Modern Teochew

Wine list by Yang Lv (MS), Simon Li

Wine on list: 305 (6 by the glass)

By the glass: 108 - 450 RMB

Amazing Chinese Jing'an shows again the talent of Yang Lu for picking true icons, covering off not just mouthwatering Champagne, Burgundy but also heroes from the old and new world too (including rarely seen finds like Bell Hill). Showcasing some of the world's unquestioned finest wines, and at very fair prices, this is a list that invites you to dive deep, with only a lack of Champagne by the glass as a rare misstep.

AMAZING CHINESE CUISINE WAI TAN

菁禧荟-外滩店

Cuisine: Modern Teochew

Wine list by Yang Lv (MS), Simon Li

Wine on list: 117 (6 by the glass)

By the glass: 108 - 480 RMB

Unwavering in its focus on grand Burgundy & Champagne, Amazing Chinese Wai Tan has a selection that dives deep into the magic of Burgundy, with features on the grandest names in wine - Roulot, Rousseau, Romanee-Conti and much more. This singular focus makes the selection here wonderful, but also slightly unforgiving - if you don't care for grand Burgundy or Champagne this isn't your wine list. A remarkable assortment of wines, regardless.

Cuisine: Contemporary French Fine Dining

Wine list by Dirk Chen

Wine on list: 1800 (40 by the glass)

By the glass: 208 - 1760 HKD

China's Best Champagne List

The Amber wine list is an extraordinary rollcall of the world's best wines with its focus on the classic wines of France. Champagne leads the way with the Dom Perignon selection at the forefront. The Burgundy (both white and red) listing has both depth and breath with Bordeaux an equally compelling selection. The rest of the vinous world is well covered with fortified and dessert wines especially strong. The savvy 'by the glass' list rounds out Amber's excellent wine list.

Cuisine: French

Wine list by Martin Liu

Wine on list: 272 (15 by the glass)

By the glass: 110 - 480 RMB

A sophisticated, French-adorned wine list that celebrates some of the biggest names in the French wine industry. But, that's just half the story for Ambre Ciel. The other half looks beyond Champagne, Bordeaux and Burgundy to the rest of France, and then an eclectic mix of world wines from Germany, Italy and Europe to Chile, Argentina and the US. A special treat is the Chinese wine selection from a range of regions including Shanxi, Ningxia, Xinjiang and Penglai. Wines by the glass offers a great starting point.

Cuisine: Spanish and Italian

Wine list by Calvin Choi

Wine on list: 356 (24 by the glass)

By the glass: 150 - 320 HKD

Calvin Choi packs a lot into the Amelia wine list with a wide-ranging selection from across the vinous globe. Italy and Spain are highlighted but its the collection of aged Bordeaux that lifts Choi's wine list into the stellar category. Fancy a 1945 Ch Mouton or a 1961 Ch Palmer? Yes, please. Or delve back into the 19th century with an 1899 Ch Lafite. Why not? The Rhone Valley gets into the act with a 1957 Mont-Redon Châteauneuf-du-Pape. A sprinkling of large format bottles adds to the fun with the detailed maps of key wine regions an educational masterstroke.

Cuisine: Cantonese, Fujian and Local

Wine list by Tom Luo

Wine on list: 208 (9 by the glass)

By the glass: 198 - 318 RMB

Chinese wines are celebrated at the Amnor Resort with an amazing collection of varieties and regions across a wide range of price points. European wines are in solid support with a smattering of wines from the New World adding both depth and breadth. That said, its the focus on Chinese wines that lifts Amnor Resort into the 'must visit soon' category.

ANISE 🍷🍷

Cuisine: French

Wine list by Tank Tang, XR Chen

Wine on list: 301 (14 by the glass)

By the glass: 130 - 290 RMB

The Anise wine list zeros in on the wines of China with a wonderful selection by the bottle and (importantly) by the glass. Wines from across the classic regions of France are a highlight with strong support from other European countries and the New World. The mouth-watering list of Champagnes adds a final sparkle to this enticing wine list.

Cuisine: Italian

Wine list by Jiawang Cao

Wine on list: 118 (17 by the glass)

By the glass: 119 - 137 RMB

A concise list with excellent selection of grower Champagne and 'on trend' lo-fi wines. There is a nice offering of white and red Burgundy alongside some Italian favourites from well-known quality producers. You will find a wine to fall in love with on this list.

THE AUBREY, MANDARIN ORIENTAL

Cuisine: Izakaya (Japanese bar)

Wine list by Justin Ng Siu Ki

Wine on list: 222 (26 by the glass)

By the glass: 138 - 800 HKD

The list has an appealing focus on all things Japanese, with a fine selection of their wines, everything from Koshu to Pinot Noir, followed by a wonderful array of Sake and featured Japanese breweries. There follows an international offering, including some superstar wines by the glass and a feature on the champagnes of Jacques Selosse. Some thrilling Burgundies and a fine supporting cast. Tea lovers will be very happy. An excellent list.

AUOR 🍷🍷🍷

4/F, 88 Gloucester Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong (and SAR) - 852 28664888

www.auor.com.hk

Cuisine: Asian/French Fine Dining

Wine list by Cherish Ho

Wine on list: 0 (18 by the glass)

By the glass: 150 - 450 HKD

Cherish Ho has curated a finely focussed wine list with France at its heart. Champagne, Burgundy and especially Bordeaux are the strengths of the Auor list. In support is a thoughtful selection of wines from the rest of France and around the vinous globe, limited in number but, in each case, high in quality. Adding gravitas is the amazing line-up of mature Bordeaux, dating back to 1966 and including top vintages like 1982, 1990 and the millennium year, 2000.

AUX BUEAUX ARTS, MGM MACAU 🍷🍷🍷

寶雅座

Avenida Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Macau, Macau (and SAR) - +8538802 2319

Cuisine: French

Wine list by Chris Lam

Wine on list: 1474 (27 by the glass)

By the glass: 90 - 400 MOP

An impressive list from start to finish, Aux Beaux Arts leans French and doesn't miss any big names or regions, from Champagne and Burgundy to Bordeaux, the Rhône and beyond. Back-vintages also run deep – an 1870 Château Lafite-Rothschild, perhaps? Thoughtful inclusions from elsewhere around the world add interest – think Australia, Portugal, the US and Spain – and while this list, which is almost 1500 bottles strong, hits some pricey heights, the quality is undeniable. A diverse mix of wines offered by the glass allows for a comparatively affordable taste of the great regions around the world.

Wine list by Paul Guan, Daniel Liu

Wine on list: 449 (21 by the glass)

By the glass: 158 - 668 RMB

A superlative wine list that tours all of the important varieties from their best countries, alongside rare varieties and 'on trend' skin contact and lo-fi offerings. There is an enticing collection of Krug, including all the information you could hope for to make your decision. At Avant you can sip the rare Chateau d'Yquem dessert wine by the glass or simply enjoy a juicy glass of New Zealand Pinot Noir. If it is food and wine matching you love, this is the place for you, the best choices have all been made with different options on price and style.

With a proud international flavour, Azur's list feels like a global wine tour, with smartly chosen examples picked from South Africa to Argentina and places in between. What sets the Azur list apart is the extra regional information, that ensures this is more than just a catalogue of wines and instead an education piece which is always welcome.

Bao Li Xuan is a two Michelin star Cantonese fine dining restaurant in the Bulgari hotel Shanghai. As a nod to the Roman origins of the luxury brand, the international wine list has an Italian focus, including a celebration of Italian women winemakers. With over 20 wines by the glass and some creative pairings with the set menu, this promises to be a memorable dining experience.

Wine list by Henry Xie

Wine on list: 84 (13 by the glass)

By the glass: 88 - 238 RMB

Be Echoes demonstrates that you don't need a large list if the selections are carefully chosen, and there are many highlights here, including the smart by-the-glass options and the wonderful wine journeys. The only thing really missing here is a bigger breadth of wines beyond the old world, especially given the quality of the few new world wines chosen.

BISTRO3 🍷

Cuisine: French Fusion

Wine list by Henri Wu

Wine on list: 108 (18 by the glass)

By the glass: 88 - 288 RMB

With a well-chosen selection of Champagne & French wines headlining the list, Bistro3 delivers plenty of contemporary highlights (including some eccentricities, like a Condrieu section). The angle here is very much towards premium options and grand names, with the list missing only beer and other drinks to complete the package.

This must surely be one of the greatest collections of whisky on the planet. In addition to this, there is an exemplary list of high-end champagne, and impressive collections of Bordeaux and Burgundy, complemented by a smallish group of international wines and a tidy group of wines from China. There are four fortifieds by the glass but no listing of wines by the glass: this is a flaw in what is offered. Those who are disappointed will find solace elsewhere in this amazing new list.

This wine list is clearly well chosen and from the heart. Each wine seems selected with thought and consideration to the guest and the cuisine. A superb food and wine matching experience is available with multiple choices offered for each signature dish. A 20 plus strong section of local wines with an informative paragraph about wine grapes in China alongside international wines from the major regions of the world. The list is long enough to have exactly what you need without getting lost.

Brasserie's focus maybe French, but this well-compiled list also includes a multitude of quality wines from around the world. Importantly, the French selection goes beyond Burgundy/Bordeaux & Champagne, with delicacies from the Jura & the SW all included. A strong by the glass offering, and even a small grappa assortment just ice the cake.

Reflecting the international flavour of the menu, Bread Street Kitchen & Bar's list is proudly global, drifting from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Chile, Switzerland, France Italy & more. It's the small details that add interest here, like the affordable pours of Chateau d'Yquem by the glass, or a Berry Bros English sparkling.

The strengths of this immaculately presented list are the quality of its finest wines from all parts of the globe: carefully chosen, appropriately priced. Similarly, there is no doubting the quality of the champagnes or the whites. I suspect that customers might like a wider selection of wines by the glass and a listing of its beers and spirits, while the restaurant could bask in a higher glass rating.

Brut Eatery Xin Tian Di presents an eclectic and interesting selection that is provocatively broken down to categories including 'Premier' 'Chaos' & 'Nature' that give the wines a really identity. A pleasure to see the excellent coverage of emerging lo-fi labels (like Hermit Ram) alongside a very good range of Champagne and sparkling (including a swathe of grower Champagne). The lack of other drinks listed is the only negative here.

There is plenty of fun in the wine list at Brut Eatery, especially with the headings that give a nod to the different countries from where the wines are sourced. It has an interesting, modern list, smallish by the glass yet with good choices. Again, the beer and spirits listing is not extensive yet all three beers are available on tap.

The Canton Disco sommelier clearly enjoys the challenge that comes with the job of matching wines to a creative Cantonese menu. The result is a broad listing of world wines from dry and bright, rich and savoury, youth and age to sweet and fortified, which also embraces a strong spirit contingent including huangjiu and baijiu. For a shortcut, turn to the Seasonal Sommelier Selection, or order an imaginatively-named cocktail (with names like Life Is Like Summer Flower, it's hard to resist) and consider the possibilities. Strengths range from French and Italian quality makers to an enthusiastic listing of Chinese wines - white and red - and some excellent European whites and US reds.

Canton Table's tighter list of 210 wines shows a good depth of classical styles, with French favourites featuring heavily on the list. Great to see some international new world diversity beyond that, even if the by the glass options seem a little simple given the breadth of wines to choose from. A good balanced of mature vs fresh and lively styles for a smaller list too.

A new name on the Shanghai wine scene, Canvas 222, founded in 2022, keeps a tight wine listing largely devoted to the wines of France. In just 105 wines, it looks to the major regions. Big names such as Rousseau, Roumier, Calon-Segur, Lafite-Rothschild and more offer eye-popping appeal. Champagne is a feast of big houses and growers. In keeping with its French-Japanese Fusion cuisine, expect to also see the odd sake, US or German white wine or New Zealand and Italian red.

By the glass: 80 - 220 MOP

Building off the awe-inspiring, 17,800 bottle Grand Lisboa hotel cellar, the Casa Don Alfonso list provides an incredible depth that is rarely seen in this country. From 200+ year old Madeira to verticals of Dom Perignon and everything in between, there is incredible breadth here. The only missing elements is the world beyond aged wines to make this a more rounded experience.

Cuisine: Western

Wine list by Sakura Li

Wine on list: 156 (15 by the glass)

By the glass: 109 - 179 RMB

With a selection from across the globe, The Cathay Room delivers plenty of interest in its 156 wine deep list, missing only some of the non wine extras to make it a full beverage offering. Great to see a few more less common wines by the glass, and local Chinese wines given more prominence, with this list only needing a bit more attention to detail for higher marks.

Wine list by DrinkArts Studio & Meiyu Li, Xiaolong Li

Wine on list: 219 (6 by the glass)

By the glass: 88 - 128 RMB

This is a neatly balanced international list with significant emphasis on the great wines of France but with a nod to other regions from around the world. It is thoughtfully chosen with high-end patrons in mind and beautifully presented. The spirits collection (especially the whiskies) offer wonderful choice.

Wine on list: 97 (3 by the glass)

By the glass: 98 - 98 RMB

While this list suffers from having so few wines by the glass, this is overcome by the sommelier's meticulous choice of wines from France and around the world. There's a decent balance between high end offerings and clever choices at more modest prices. Most will struggle to make their final decision about what to drink, few will be disappointed.

Cuisine: Steak house

Wine list by Ziyang Xu

Wine on list: 112 (20 by the glass)

By the glass: 88 - 588 RMB

Led by an ambitious by the glass selection Char Bar & Grill delivers a selection that features plenty of less traditional highlights and a good spread of 'non wine' beverage choices. The white wines here very much take a back seat, which is not surprising given the mouthwatering grill menu, however a few more full bodied whites (and Champagne by the glass) will help garner this list even higher honours.

Cuisine: Sichuan French Fusion

Wine list by Kiven Hua

Wine on list: 58 (9 by the glass)

By the glass: 178 - 338 RMB

While this is a small wine list of just 58 wines, there is a high level of experience and thought behind the selection of wines. The emphasis is on well-priced, quality names from both China and the rest of the world. Expect to see a wide range of styles from classic French and Italian to some everyday, drink now whites and reds, not forgetting a dip into local Chinese rkatsiteli, chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon. The restaurant's Sichuan-French Fusion cuisine calls for an innovative listing that explores spice-friendly wines as well as the complex and the young and fresh. It is delivered.

The Chateau Dionne restaurant celebrates all things French with this enticing wine list leading the way. The cornerstones rest on Champagne, Burgundy and Bordeaux with extra depth in the red Burgundy category. A neat sweep across the rest of France adds gravitas, as does the careful selection of neighbouring European and New World wines. The succinct 'by the glass' list adds panache to Chateau Dionne's appealing wine list.

Portugal via Cotai, that's the intention of Chiado's list, and this entertaining romp through Portugal and beyond offers plenty of interest, with details like Portuguese water, beer and an array of fortifieds making it interesting. Some of the white wines are looking a bit tired, but that remains the sole gripe on what is otherwise a well chosen list

The good news is that Ensue, winner of the 2020 China's Wine List of the Year for Mainland China and Hall of Fame recipient since, is just as good as it was when it won. In fact, with an additional 100 wines on the list, and those wines on the 'by the glass list' served under Coravin, Ensue remains a standout. The presentation of the list is incomparable and the wines themselves make this one of the finest lists on the globe. Mini verticals of stellar wines (Yquem, Dom, Salon, Ulysse Collin and more) force us to draw breath while a high-end view of Napa with Harlan, Realm, Opus One, Staglin Family take that breath away. But Ensure is about much more. China is lavishly displayed as is the rest of the world. A tour de force, still.

Grand Boat in Pudong is the younger sister restaurant to Grand Boat Julu Road and arrives with a slightly smaller listing of wines to its big sibling. However, the list's big attractions remain intact starting with the breakthrough abalone and aged wine pairing. Few restaurants would consider promoting such an unusual and daring project but put your trust in the sommelier and the consultant sommelier, Yang Lu, China's only Master Sommelier. It offers an exciting ride. This is a truly international wine listing that highlights a wide range of wines from the icons and classics, the innovative and new wave from the old and new worlds. The Burgundy collection is a stand.

Few wine lists around the world would consider an opening page devoted to abalone and wine matchings. But then few restaurant lists have a Master Sommelier as a consultant, someone interested in presenting something different. Yang Lu has a vision for Grand Boat combining exciting food and wine pairings. His argument that abalone is a perfect match for aged red wine is put to the test with a listing of eight wines from Chateau Musar to Piedmont's Tenuta Monolo with the oldest harking back to 1989. As you progress through the wine list keep an eye out for a range of wines that swing between the icon and classic to the innovative and exciting sourced from the old world and the new. There is a lot to consider.

With over 17,800 wines to call on, the Grand Lisboa Hotel doesn't just have a selection, it has a catalogue. It's easy to get lost in the comprehensive nature of this list, with incredible highlights including one of the largest German Auslese+ lists you'll ever see, an awe inspiring catalogue of Champagne, and page after page of aged icons. There is a lack of fresher options here, but the irrepressible weight of vintaged unicorns negates that. A lack of spirits/drinks other than wine ultimately stops this list getting top marks.

So the tiny list by the glass has a non-alcoholic tea as a worthy addition; there are recommendations of bubbly from Champagne, Piedmont and Austria; atypical yet fascinating whites and reds from different parts of the globe; a range of sweeties; Something different; a range of powerful, full-bodied reds, and The Rise of China (I'd try the marselan.) In this case, small is indeed good.

While visitors to both Canton Disco and Hiya restaurants in The Edition Hotel will note a similarity in the wine selections for both, they will also note a lot of difference. The first and most impressive is the presentation of sake which takes up one third of the entire listing with a scintillating range of styles on show, from sparkling & cloudy, cereal-based, earthy & umami in taste, fruit & flower, sweet and a special selection from the in-demand producer, Juyondai. Then, there is the distinctly different offering of wines by the glass which travels the world from Sicilian carricante and a fine Chablis, to a Chilean cabernet sauvignon and a first-rate barbera from a premium Piedmont producer. From there, the degree of choice expands with a constant eye to what suits and matches the Japanese cuisine.

Serving up Eastern Chinese specialties in the Four Seasons Hotel in Hangzhou, Jin Sha offers a seriously considered wine list. Set wine pairings are exciting – think crispy chicken with spicy salt alongside Benanti Etna Bianco – and premium wines by the glass are offered in two sizes. Wine flights are also on offer, and that's before you get to the raft of quality wines that follow. France and Italy are heavily featured, with all the key regions covered in style, while a concise selection of New World inclusions adds genuine interest, along with a handful of Chinese wines, too.

The Ritz Carlton's Jing Ji Aristocrat restaurant certainly aspires to some aristocratic wine tastes with an exceptional French cast of wines leading the way. Champagne is a real delight and focus here, together with Burgundy. Featured Burgundy producers include Domaine Leflaive, DRC, Domaine Prieuré Roch, Domaine Dujac, Comte Georges de Vogüé and more. The French are ably supported by an international selection of wines before finishing with a real flourish, a comprehensive collection of whiskies and spirits including a vertical of Mou Tai (1978-2022) and Chinese liquor.

Wine on list: 88 (5 by the glass)

By the glass: 98 - 198 RMB

A wine list of 88 wines tuned to Chaozhou cooking which, leading wine consultant, Meiju Li, calls the "delicate Chinese cuisine" on the list. She oversees the selection of wines focusing principally on France, with Champagne and Burgundy having starring roles. White wines look to vibrant, youthful, unoaked styles. Similarly, red wines tend towards pinot noir, aged Bordeaux, user-friendly styles from Beaujolais and Rhône Valley and the odd superstar inclusion. And, yes, look out for a few Chinese wines which also get a mention.

China's Best Independent Restaurant Wine List China's Best New List

A new (2022), fabulous wine list for Shanghai from experienced consultant, Yang Li, which showcases French wines exclusively for the French cuisine offered. It's a French feast, with each region given almost equal time to show its wares. There aren't too many favourites as the wines and styles swing from the well-known - Champagne, Burgundy, Bordeaux, Rhône Valley - to the less well-known - Languedoc, Savoie, Corsica, Provence, South West - and more. The list is essentially divided into two parts with the first devoted to mainly young, well-priced wines from a range of makers. The second part moves up a quality notch with a strong showing of Prestige wines where some special and the occasional once-in-a-lifetime wine awaits.

Best Wine List - Northern China

Experienced consultant sommelier, Yang Lu, presents a truly unique wine list. The theme is as big as it gets, the history of human civilisation through wine. And so it starts with Georgia, Lebanon, Greece and Italy and moves through time to France and Germany, before finishing with new world stars, Australia and New Zealand. With each country's entry, which looks briefly at its wine history, customers can then explore their wines. It's not the most comprehensive wine journey offered, but it is among the most interesting and inviting. It finishes with a picture of future winemaking opportunities, possibly on the moon! China's Best Medium List (max 100)

Experienced sommelier, Richard King, promises to take your palate on a "global tour" of wine and delivers a list that explores the old world and new world of wine. There's plenty of take in on this tour as the categories range from old world classics to new world exploration, with the odd prestige listing thrown in for those who wish to visit iconic brands such as Lafite Rothschild, Margaux, Petrus and Ornellaia and others. Champagnes from the cellar are also a feature with vintages dating back to 2007, 2008, 2012.

This is a high-end list that focuses on the wines of France and especially those from Burgundy and Bordeaux. The key to its quality is the care with which its wines are chosen. It often balances superstars with less-well-known gems from emerging winemakers. As with the champagnes and wines from around the globe. It is an exemplary small list, immaculately presented.

Your Spanish gets a real work out at Olla with a wine list heavy in Spanish names. While modest in number - there are just 60 wines - the list is large in varietal personality from sparkling Cava, godello and albarino through to tempranillo and syrah, with a Telmo Rodriguez Málaga to finish. Big names and small populate the Spanish collection. Equally, the rest of the list also brings out the odd superstar from Ridge Vineyards, Le Puy and Geantet Pansiot.

Ombra presents a small wine listing of the wines of the world with an accent on wine education, introducing each section from Sea Breeze Wines and Aromatic Wines through to Fruit Driven Red Wines with some words on what to expect and some food pairing suggestions. The wines are, for the most part, well-priced and accessible. Those who wish to start exploring the world of natural and orange/amber wines could easily start here. Smart illustrations guide the wine lover concluding in a smart sweet wine finish. Chinese wines are scattered throughout.

By the glass: 65 - 110 RMB

This recently opened restaurant in Xi'an has a thoughtfully designed international wine list. The modest selection by the glass covers all the bases and is keenly priced. The champagne list sets the pace with a range of non-vintage bubbly followed by a couple of vintage wines and some top of the range gems to tempt. The rest of the list offers the usual suspects (by grape variety) from around the globe, led by France but with Europe, the rest of the world and China all well-represented. A satisfying list.

The name Oriental Sense & Palate says it all with Chef Fei garnering One Michelin Star for his elegant food. His sommelier Diana Zhang follows Fei's elegant lead with a compact wine list that offers prestige wines like Dom Perignon, Chateaux Lafite, Mouton and Latour alongside her sommelier selections such as Sassicaia, Opus One and DRC Romanee St Vivant. The keen-eyed wine lover will find some bargains with a tight selection of sake and spirits rounding things out.

The Ossiano Underwater Restaurant & Bar oozes style and panache with sommelier Aaron Ao's wine list of equal quality and status. Benchmarks abound - be they Grande Marque Champagnes, 1st Growth Bordeaux or Grand Cr Burgundies. Italy is well represented led by Barbaresco, Barolo and quality Super-Tuscans. Ao's thoughtful selection of Pan European wines is backed by a sprinkling of fine wines for the New World. A tidy offering of spirits and cocktails completes this marvellous wine list.

A sophisticated, well considered wine list that works hand in hand with its French cuisine but then goes further, much further. Takes a deep dive into the wines of France with a terrific selection of Champagne and Burgundy, in particular. But then visits the wider world of wine, from the eclectic inclusion of the odd wine from Greece, Switzerland, Uruguay, Israel and Japan, to a solid array of top producers from Europe and South America. The inclusion of amber and 'natural' wines shows this list moving with the times. Those wishing to explore Chinese wines are in for a real treat.

Led by an impressive selection of Champagne, Oyster talks knows its oyster (and sparkling wine) loving audience very well. The mainly older reds compared to fresher whites shows an acute awareness of the importance of vintage too. One of the few negatives here is the overly-short selection by the glass which simply does no justice to this list's depth.

Panos Steakhouse celebrates meat and the grill. Sommelier Bruce Ba's wine list celebrates the best of France with Bordeaux and Burgundy leading the way. A tight selection of top chateaux sets a high standard with a good number of mature wines underpinning the collection. That said, its the red Burgundy selection that brings Ba's list to light. Detailed descriptions of the key communes adds an educational tone with lots of luxe pinots on offer. A thoughtful dusting of quality wines for across the vinous globe adds breadth and gravitas to this skilful wine list.

Solid names abound here, well known and much loved, and there are mature examples of them as well. France takes pride of place, but the Italians are a fine array as well, with a focus on the wines of Gaja. Such could be said about most of the world's wine regions. Good to see attention paid to sherry and there is also a fine array of Chinese spirits. Lovers of teas – green, white, aged, any variation if which you can think – will be happy. They form part of an impressive supporting cast of beverages.

The Pine offers a special occasion kind of wine list, one filled with lots of world-class, wonderful wines, albeit a little on the expensive side. Here, you can buy a bottle from a 13-strong collection of Mouton Rothschild's famous art labels dating back to 1990. They set the scene for a small but quality group of wines by the glass that follows, including a glass of J.M. Seleque Champagne or Domaine Pates Loup Chablis. The main listing concentrates heavily on Bordeaux and Burgundy with featured producers such as A.F. Gros, Robert Groffier, Sylvain Pataille, Meo Camuzet and DRC, among others. Or, you can simply leave the decision making to the sommeliers and their recommended set price pairings.

Sichuan Fusion Tapas is, as the name suggests, full of creative, spice-fuelled dishes such as Sichuan pepper flavoured pigeon which require an equally creative wine list devoted to a range of tastes. It is delivered with this list which is devoted exclusively to the wines of the world and little else. Start with the multitude of flavours that awaits by the glass from Italy, Spain, France, Chile and beyond. The main list presentation is divided by old and new world and then by country. Choose the country you wish to visit and then dive right in. The in-depth look at France also includes feature producers: Domaine Leflaive, Domaine Robert Groffier and Domaine Pierre Girardin. The impressive list of Chinese red wines is also worth a second look.

The offerings by the glass range far and wide, in region and style, with a number of more mature offerings available. A wonderful array of Chinese spirits and wines for those keen to drink local. As impressive as the collection of champagnes is, the Burgundies tower above all. For reds, the list of Bordeaux is sublime, but then, so are the Burgundies. An excellent list.

The Soif wine list takes their guests on a delightful journey across the world of wine. The tight 'by the glass' selection sets the scene with a thoughtful offering of countries, regions and varieties. The main list opens with France before exploring the rest of Europe and moving to the New World. Lo-fi wines are celebrated as are rediscovered regions like Sicily, Jura and Beaujolais. A tight selection of Chinese wines completes this compact wine list.

Sole is a new addition on the Shanghai food and wine scene, and arrives with a particularly strong and confident wine list. Makes its mark with a lot of sophisticated, classy wines. Offers depth, too, with some well-aged superstars going back to the early 2000s and 1990s including Gaja 'Conteisa' Barolo 1996, Mouton Rothschild 1996. The sommelier starts the list with a couple of themed categories including Exceptional Seasons, Marvellous Terroir and Talented Vintners. It's an interesting collection of wines. The main listing reverts back to looking at the bigger world of wine, offering both impressive small boutique makers and icons. Sole is also a cocktail specialist, so take advantage of it as you pause and deliberate over the wine list.

For something a little different, check out the Interesting Variety section in both white and red wines for a quick exploration of grape varieties such as moschofilero, garganega, mataro, pinotage and zinfandel. France and the wines of the US go head to head in some sections, in others, specialist regions and producers step up such as German riesling, Burgundy pinot noir, Bordeaux cabernet and Australian Rhone varieties. It's a fascinating national vinous tussle.

The spectacular view from the 60th floor of the Greenland Centre in Ji Nan might dominate proceedings but there's lots to like about the adventurous wine list in the Spring Pavilion. The selection is predominantly French but it moves into interesting pockets around the world, too. The choice by the glass is substantial and should please all palates. Similarly, there are some great wines from Bordeaux, Tuscany and China and modestly priced wines from Chile, the Alentejo and the French countryside.

The House of Roosevelt is a well-known destination for wine lovers in Shanghai. Steak Roosevelt is a specialist western cuisine restaurant with a strong focus on, yes, steak! With that in mind, the wine list has revolved around a terrific listing of red wines from Europe - notably Italian Barolo, Spanish tempranillo and French Bordeaux. But it is the boldness of the New World offerings including Australian shiraz, Argentinian malbec, US cabernets that stand out as particularly fine meat pairings. And, of course, the general listing of wines takes in a wide world of wine.

There's a personal – and creative – touch to this list, which divides its selections into categories with titles like Mediterranean Sunshine, Different Shades of Riesling, and Curiosity Rewarded. Within these, there are the classic top-tier European wines – the first wines listed are Grand Cru Burgundy – but these sit alongside biodynamic releases (they're called out with a cute ladybug icon), plus orange wines and more emerging New World selections. It makes for a pretty diverse offering, which also includes sake and a good range of tea, and it all suits the contemporary Chinese cuisine.

This Japanese restaurant in Guangzhou has a tiny list. It does compensate for this by the care it takes with its choices, especially with its wine by the glass. Because the food it serves is better suited to white wines, there are only two reds on the list and none by the glass. A sensible move. It is an international list, mainly French, and focused on wines made with sustainable viticulture. The Wine Pairing set improves the offering of wines. An outstanding collection of sake will delight.

Wine list by Qu Zhiyong

Wine on list: 97 (15 by the glass)

By the glass: 80 - 178 RMB

The whimsical play on the word 'wine' in Winederful Bottle's name tells how seriously sommelier Qu Zhiyong takes his job. Indeed, this is a serious collection of fine wine. France leads the way with Champagne and Burgundy at the forefront. The rest of France and Europe is covered succinctly, as is the wider world of wine. The thoughtful 'by the glass' collection is to be applauded with the premium section adding gravitas. Winederful Bottle's wine list places quality over quantity to the vinous delight of its patrons. .

WINESDAY

Cuisine: Occidental
Wine list by Miles Lu
Wine on list: 447 (38 by the glass)
By the glass: 58 - 358 RMB

As the name suggests, Winesday, is almost entirely devoted to wine. This is the place to go for some superb wines by the glass, from premium pours from the likes of Maison Leroy and Vega Sicilia, to a selection a little more approachable in price but still quality-minded, through to an ever-changing monthly wine selection. Or, you can choose to go with the premium wine set menu, or choose from the Sommelier Recommendation range. There is so much choice and that's just by the glass. The main listing shows its new wave credentials early with a collection of natural and orange/amber wines, while also embracing established producers from Europe and beyond. The collection of French wines combines top wines and once-in-a-lifetime offerings to producers from new, exciting regions such as Sicily.

Wine list by Olive Gao
Wine on list: 256 (14 by the glass)
By the glass: 98 - 558 RMB

The WL Bistro wine list is an exemplary example of quality over a endless listing of everyday wines. While sommelier, Olive Gao focuses on Champagne and Burgundy, the rest of France is treated with due respect. The Pan-European selection is strong with a sweep of the New World in solid support. Gao's list highlights Chinese wine with the 'by the glass' list a thoughtfully curated collection.

The great bonus of dining at Xi Jin Hui is the extensive selection of 100 wines by the glass. Everyone will be able to find something that suits the occasion. Some might not be comfortable with the unusual division of the wines by country rather than grape variety. The lack of any listing of other beverages makes it more difficult to judge the whole restaurant experience. Rest assured there will be plenty of good wines from around the world to enhance your visit.
